Laws: Mauritania is an Islamic country, thus local laws, traditions and customs reflect that. Narcotics laws are severe. Those found in possession of any illegal drugs may receive a harsh prison sentence. Alcohol consumption and sale is illegal, however some restaurants do serve it. At this time homosexuality remains a punishable offense. It is highly advisable to carry ID and your passport at all times when traveling out side of the capital city of Nouakchott as there are many police road checks. Sometimes police object to photography with out prior permission.

Safety & Security: There is increasing activity by the terrorist group Al Qaeda in the Land of the Islamic Maghreb (AQIM) in Mauritania. Given AQIM threats to attack western targets in Mauritania and the region, and due to indications of a desire to kidnap Westerners for ransom, U.S. citizens are urged to remain vigilant and be alert to surveillance or other risks to their safety. Faith-based organizations, regardless of their location, may also be particularly targeted. U.S. citizens should avoid all non-essential travel to the Hodh El Charghi region of southeastern Mauritania, the eastern half of the Tagant region of central Mauritania (east of Tidjika), and the Zemmour region of northern Mauritania, due to increased AQIM activities in these areas. Travel in the unpopulated areas of eastern Mauritania (areas east of Zouerate and Chinguetti and north of Nema) is strongly discouraged without a government escort.

Health: Yellow Fever Vaccine is required. At this time there is not HIV/AIDS entry restrictions for visitors to or foreign residents of Mauritania
