

Importing Personal Property Into China

HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND PERSONAL EFFECTS

CUSTOMS REGULATIONS AND REQUIRED DOCUMENTS

Customs Regulations:

Client must arrive into China prior to arrival of the shipment and be present during Customs the clearance process. All shipments undergo an X-ray inspection with 20 - 30% of shipments being physically inspected by Customs Authority. Duty rates for Air shipments are typically 30% higher than Ocean shipments. If importing more than one (1) shipment, shipments must be declared together. Second shipments either Air or Ocean will be charged full tax and duty amounts.

Only one ocean and one air shipment allowed per Residence Permit. If the Destination is Beijing, these permits must be applied for at the same time.

Personal registration of owner of the goods and employer's registration must be approved before arrival of the shipment. Used household goods and personal effects are dutiable for Chinese persons holding a foreign passport and foreigners entering China for an extended period (not holding a Residence Card). For foreigners without a 1 year Work Permit & Residence Permit shipment cannot be cleared and will incur storage and demurrage. Those who have the permits but are less than 1 year will be charged full duties on entire shipment.

It is critical to have accurate packing and inventory lists. Conflicting lists create a long delay and potential financial penalties. Additional costs due to delays, destruction or return of shipment due to not adhering to Customs Regulations will be charged to the client or booking agent. Customs Permit and Inventory List must be identical. Baggage Declaration is required for some destination ports. Consult Destination Agent for requirements.

A VAT of 6% will be levied on all charges remitted to the carrier in China for both import and export, including ocean freight and all surcharges. This is a government tax which is applicable to tariff rated and contracted cargo. The tax does not apply when bill of lading charges are prepaid outside of China. Customs and quarantine clearance can take up to 2 weeks to complete.

Returning Chinese citizens without proof of foreign residency are subject to 100% full payment of duties for household goods and personal effects at POE/AOE. Returning nationals must have lived abroad for 1 year to import an ocean shipment and 6 months for air shipments.

Immigration Requirement changes by Province

Shanghai Port:

New Requirement: Inbound ocean shipments - Labels on all incoming items must match the name on the passport that is used for Customs clearance. Discrepancies will cause the process to be stopped and require the client to be present to finish the exam. Additional charges will incur and other requirements may be imposed.

New Requirement: Outbound ocean shipments for foreigners – Export permits for HHG's will be granted automatically for shippers who apply with valid residence and work permits, provided these permits have been issued for at least 12 consecutive months and the export permit application is filed within the validity period. Those shorter than 12 months must provide an explanation letter. The origin agent in Shanghai will assist with the letter.

Only long-term residents are allowed to import/export both household and personal effects to/from the PRC. Short-term residents are only allowed to import/export personal effects.

It is possible for a working spouse to hold a PRC Work Permit with a validity of 365 days or more with a Residence Permit valid for less than 365 days. In such instances, the transferee is eligible to import household (and personal) effects as their work permit meets the minimum validity requirement.

Non-working (dependent) spouses are eligible for household and personal effects imports and are subject to the same rule – if their PRC Residence Permit is valid for 365 days or more, they can ship household and personal effects; if the validity is less than 365 days they can only ship personal effects. A valid Ocean Freight Booking must be provided along with original passport and work permit required. Due to the limited time; all relevant consignment and routing information must be available prior to packing. Delay in providing this information may result in delay of clearance and delay of returning passports to our clients. Customs and quarantine clearance can take up to 5 weeks to complete.

Shipments that require storage in Shanghai due to destination country requirements may have to be routed through a different port of export as Shanghai customs will no longer allow storage of these shipments at the bonded warehouse. LCL traffic process is unaffected at the present time.

Shanghai Airport: Returning citizens are required to declare value on accompanying luggage on the Baggage Declaration Form. Amount declared will be deducted from the duty free allowance of 5,000RMB. Declaration over 5,000RMB incurs tax and duty to be paid at time of entry. Upon arrival of HHG's shipment the duty free amount of 5,000RMB minus declared luggage will be assessed tax and duty.

Beijing & Shanghai: An Appointment Letter issued from the head office at origin, notarized by a foreign notary public bureau and legalized by the Chinese embassy at origin, along with applicant's passport copy also notarized by foreign notary public bureau and legalized by the Chinese embassy is required for the Representative Certificate for foreign employees who are assigned to work in a Representative Office.

Shenzhen: Applicants are required to be physically present with a Destination Agent representative at the Public Security Bureau when submitting the residency application forms provided by the agent and one's original passport. The client will be issued a receipt. The process takes 6-12 working days. Once complete the client, accompanied with a Destination Agent representative will exchange the receipt for the Residency License and passport. This policy change affects initial and renewal applications. Consult your Destination Agent for further details regarding this new requirement.

VAT of approximately 6% will be incurred on shipments into and out of Shanghai, Shenzhen, Tianjin, Wuchan, Chongqing ports.

Xingang Port: All household goods shipments transiting through Xingang port must ensure the container seal marks on the Bill of Lading be identical to the marks on the containers seal; including all numbers and letters. Any omissions may result in the container being detained and possibly sent to the Chinese Anti-Smuggling unit of Customs and may take up to two months before the container is released. Additional costs and possible fines will be incurred.

2016 is a leap year (366 days)

This will impact Work and Residence Permits. The total number of days on the permit needs to match the number of days in that specific annual cycle.

Permits starting on February 4th, 2016, need to end February 3rd, 2017 (366 days)

Permits starting on February 4th, 2017, need to end February 3rd, 2018 (365 days)

- Permits valid less than 366 (2016) or 365 (2017) will be treated as "short term assignments" and therefore only allowed basic HHG items such as clothes, personal effects, kitchenware etc. Furniture, appliances, electronics including desktop computers will not be allowed under that status.

Required Documents:

- Passport and Authorization letter – Original
- Work Visa – Original, valid for 1 year
- Residence Permit- Original, valid for 1 year; those issued with less than 365 days and POE is Shanghai, will need to provide an explanation letter requesting exemption and to be granted preferential duty treatment. Employees of companies that do not qualify for multi-year must ensure the application for a Residence Permit is made on the day the Work Permit is issued.

Long-term residents are all non-PRC citizens holding either a PRC Work Permit and/or Residence Permit valid for 365 days or more. Short-term residents are all non-PRC citizens holding either a PRC Work Permit and/or Residence Permit valid for less than 365

Entry & Exit Requirements: New entry regulations have impact on the relocation processes. Residence Permits take 15 working days now instead of 5. Foreigners will arrive with their visa, obtain the Work & Medical Permits while awaiting the Residence Permit. Chinese law requires foreign citizens living in China to carry their Residence Permit with them at all times. If you are found not to be in compliance, you will be subject to fines and/or deportation. You must obtain an exit visa to leave China. If you have overstayed your visa, you must apply for an extension from the Police Security Bureau before flying out. If you are a U.S. Lawful Permanent Resident, make sure you have up-to-date U.S. residence documentation, especially your valid Permanent Resident Card ("Green Card"), to avoid any delays when leaving China or re-entering the United States.

China considers a child born in China to hold Chinese citizenship if one parent is a Chinese national, even if the child applies for and receives a U.S. passport while in China. In such cases, when you want to travel out of China with your child, you should contact the local Public Security Bureau for information on obtaining a travel document (lu xing zheng).

Crime: U.S. citizens have been detained and expelled for distributing religious literature. Sentences range from three to five years' imprisonment, if convicted. Chinese customs authorities have enforced strict regulations concerning the importation of religious literature, including Bibles. Foreigners may bring only a "reasonable" amount of religious literature for personal use

Health: Some HIV/AIDS entry restrictions exist for visitors to and foreign residents of China. Verify the restrictions with the Embassy of China prior to departure. Hepatitis E is prevalent in northeastern and northwestern China and hepatitis A is common across the country. Hepatitis B is highly endemic.

Haemorrhagic fever with renal syndrome is endemic. Precautions should be taken against Japanese encephalitis, particularly in rural areas. There are still habitual occurrences of avian influenza (bird flu) and the SARS virus.

Fumigation of Wood Packing Materials: The General Administration of Quality Supervision, Inspection and Quarantine of the People's Republic of China published requirements adopting ISPM 15 for wood packaging material (WPM). IPPC markings must be on every crate & case, especially if arriving into Shanghai port. Any offending wood crating will be disposed of, leaving fragile items at risk of damage. Declared & undeclared food items are also being confiscated.

Improperly certified shipments are subject to one of three actions

The shipment can be returned to origin.

The shipment can be separated from the packing material, at the importer's expense. The packing material would be destroyed.

If the shipment cannot be separated from the packing material and is not returned to origin, then both the shipment and packing material would be destroyed.
