U.S. citizens who are traveling to Tanzania for short or long term volunteer projects should review their status with the sponsoring organization before entering the country. U.S. citizens should carry a copy of their U.S. passport with them at all times, so that, if questioned by local officials, they have readily available proof of identity and U.S. citizenship. U.S. citizens resident in Tanzania are strongly urged to maintain legal immigration status while in Tanzania to avoid difficulties with local immigration authorities.

Safety & Security: Terrorist incidents in the recent past highlight the continuing threat posed by terrorism in East Africa. In response to the recent bus bombing in Nairobi, Kenya, the Tanzanian Police issued a general terror alert on December 22, 2010. U.S. citizens are advised to dress modestly and to refrain from intemperate public behavior. U.S. officials, in keeping with UN security procedures, request police escorts on parts of the Rusomo to Kahama road near the Rwandan border because of an increase in armed bandit attacks. U.S. citizens on long-haul bus routes in Tanzania have been victims of “druggings” in which drug-laced food and drink are used to sedate unsuspecting passengers so their belongings can be stolen easily. Travelers are cautioned not to accept food or beverages from fellow passengers.

Crime: Street crime in Dar es Salaam is common and includes mugging, vehicle theft, "smash and grab" attacks on vehicles, armed robbery, and burglary. Thieves and pickpockets on buses and trains steal from inattentive passengers. Pedestrians on beaches and footpaths, both in isolated areas and in popular tourist venues, are often targeted for robbery or assault. US government personnel are expressly advised to avoid walking or running along Tourè Drive.

Health: Yellow fever vaccination is encouraged or required of one had visited a country where yellow fever is present. Cholera is a serious risk and pre-cautions are essentials. Immunization against polio and typhoid is often recommended. Malaria exists year round particularly in the Northern region. Hepatitis A, B and E are present. Meningococcal meningitis may occur. There is a high level of HIV/AIDs reported; thus one should take all necessary precautions. Rabies is present and vaccination should be considered.
